(Respondent)

Reference :—Notification Jammu, the 14th March, 2011 SRO No. 80.

ORDER

The above titled case has been referred to this Court/Tribunal vide SRO No. 80 dated 14th March, 2011 under clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 10 of the Industrial Dispute Act, 1947 by the State Government for adjudication on the following matter :—

- (a) Whether the Management of M/s. Ambuja Cement Ltd., Jammu is legally justified in terminating the services of Sh. Ashok Suri ?
- (b) If not, to what relief he is entitle to ?

On receipt of the reference, notices were issued to the parties who appeared and contest the case.

The brief fact of the case as narrated by the petitioner in his application dated 08-06-2011 that he was employed as driver in the respondent management on 1st November, 1998 @ Rs. 2525/- per month salary and was plying and driving the vehicles of the respondent during the period he worked with the respondent management i. e. w. e. f. 01-11-1998 to 20-10-2009. All of sudden the then branch manager of the respondent (management) terminated him from the services ; that the order of termination is illegal because the petitioner has not been given any notice of such termination without assigning any reasons and without informing him. The petitioner got annoyed and aggrieved with the sudden action of the management thereby leaving the applicant in a state of fix and on the streets. Thereby raised his voice against the alleged termination. To counter the claim petition of the applicant the respondent management filed their objections on 19-07-2011. The petitioner had worked in the respondent (management) continuously for about (11) eleven years to the entire satisfaction of his superiors and performed the entrusted duties sincerely, honestly, faithfully and to the best satisfaction of the employer. Besides the petitioner served the respondent company during golden youth period of his life. Now the applicant has entered in such an age of his life where no one is willing to employ him and as such he remained unemployed till date. The petitioner has finally prayed for re-instatement along with all back wages and compensation for his harassment and mental torture at this stage of life.

In their objections they have stated that the petitioner was never employed by the management at any point of time and the relationship of employer and employee has never existed between the management and the petitioner. They have further stated that the matter referred by the Government is not an industrial dispute and as such the petitioner cannot be deemed to be a “workman” as defined under the Industrial Dispute Act. Therefore the non-maintainability of the reference as such prayed for dismissal of the case. In addition to this the respondent (management) has stated that the petitioner was employed by their branch manager as his private driver who paid the salary to the petitioner of his own and in case of any grievance or dispute with regard to his alleged termination, the petitioner has to raise the same against his employer, viz. the branch manager concerned because the petitioner has never worked with the respondent management. The respondent (management) has totally denied the employment of petitioner with them and have paid all liabilities on, if any, of the petitioner, on the shoulders of their branch manager, who as per their statement, had employed the petitioner as his private driver.

The Court after considering the pleadings, objections of framed the following issues in the case :—

- (1) Whether the action of the Respondent Management in not allowing the petitioner to continue him job amounts to termination ?
- (2) If so, whether the action of the Respondent in terminating the services of the petitioner is justified ?

(3) If not, to what relief the petitioner is entitled ?

Accordingly the parties were directed to produce the evidences in support of their contentions. The petitioner filed written statement of Subash Gupta and Kulbushan Khullar in the shape of affidavits as his witnesses whereas the respondent management filed written of Keashav Deep and produced Sunil Goja as witness.

On witnesses of the petitioner have in one voice supported the claim of the petitioner that he was employed in the respondent (management) as driver and worked their continuously for about 11 years and after serving there he was terminated without any notice.

The cross-examination the witnesses have stated that they have no knowledge about the registration number of the vehicle of the respondent the petitioner plied during his service period and have also stated that they have not seen the appointment letter of the petitioner as well as his termination order. However they have admitted that the petitioner worked with the respondent (management) from year 1998 to 2009.

Respondent witness Keashav Deep has stated that he is working as branch manager in the respondent company w. e. f. March, 2015 at Trikota Nagar branch and he is the administrative head of the said branch. The witness has further stated that as per record the petitioner had never worked in the respondent company as such was not paid any salary. The witness has filed photocopies of attendance register for the period from January, 2009 to October, 2009. The witness, in cross-examination, stated that from 1998 to 2009 he had worked in Chandigrah, Dehradun and Ludhiana branch of the respondent and had joined the Jammu branch in 2015.

Another witness of respondent Sh. Sunil Goja has stated that he has joined the respondent company in 1998 in Delhi and was transferred to Jammu in 2009 and he knows the petitioner who was driver of branch manager. The witness has further stated that Shilender Arora was the branch manager at Jammu branch before his joining there. In cross-examination the witness has stated that he has joined in Jammu branch on 14th April, 2009 and at that time the petitioner was in the company.

The perusal of the case filed and the record on the file and the written arguments filed by the parties it is observed that the claim of the petitioner was employed as driver in the respondent (management) and worked there continuously for about 11 (eleven) years without any break but the respondent terminated him from the service without any rhyme or reason and without following the provisions of law. No notice or notice pay, as required under law, was ever served upon him as such has alleged his termination as illegal. The witnesses of the petitioner have in one voice support the claim of the petitioner.

On the other hand the respondent have refused the claim of the petitioner that he was employed in their company. The respondents have further stated in their objections that petitioner was employed by their branch manager as his own driver and his salary was also paid by the said branch manager. As such the petitioner has no legal right to claim anything from the respondent (management). The witnesses of the respondent have also stated that the petitioner was not the employee of the respondent. R/W Keashav Deep has also produced photocopies of attendance register for the period from January, 2009 to October, 2009, but the said photocopies are without any seal and sign of the Concerned Officer and not even attested by any Gazetted Officer. It is nowhere written in the said attendance sheets that it pertain to the respondent company and these sheets pertain to early ten months whereas the petitioner had worked there for about eleven (11) years. The respondent has also failed to produce the concerned branch manager, who, as per the statement of respondent (management), that the petitioner was his own driver. Respondent witness Keashav Deep has also failed to produce the original attendance register of his branch before this Court/Tribunal. R/W Sunil Goja has stated that when he joined the respondent company at Jammu in 2009 he had seen the petitioner there and so he knows the petitioner who was working as driver with the branch manager.

Neither the respondents nor their witnesses have given the name of the branch manager who had employed the petitioner as his own driver nor the said manager has been produced before this Court to prove the statement of the respondent witnesses as well as the contents of objections filed by the respondents to the claim of the petitioner. On the other hand the petitioner's witnesses have categorically stated that the petitioner was working in the respondent company as driver and worked there for about eleven years.

From the evidence of parties and other material it is clear that the petitioner was employed in the respondent company as a driver and worked there continuously for about eleven years. The petitioner has been terminated from the service of respondent company without any fault of the petitioner. The respondent has failed to follow the provision of law laid down in Industrial Dispute Act before ordering the termination of the petitioner. Neither any notice of termination issued to the petitioner before his termination nor any pay in lieu of such notice paid to the petitioner. The contents written in the statement of objections by the respondents is a concocted story of the respondent only to victimize the poor petitioner who has worked in the respondent company for eleven (11) years. It is a common sense that if the branch manager had engaged the petitioner as his own driver he should have taken the petitioner along with him when the said branch manager was transferred to another branch of the company. The respondent (management), only to victimize the petitioner, had refused the claim of the petitioner. The action taken by the respondent management is undoubtedly termination of services and the terminating the services of the petitioner is illegal and against all provisions of law as such the termination order of petitioner is set-aside.

Relief :

In view of the above stated facts, circumstances and the position of law the order of termination is held illegal and as such set-aside. The petitioner deserves re-instatement along with all back wages from the date of termination up to the date of actual superannuation of the petitioner from the respondent management. In addition to it the petitioner is also held entitled to all the retiral benefits.
